

Contents

Lists of Figures and Tables	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
Stéphane Castonguay and Michèle Dagenais

Representations: Urban Cultures

1. The Colonial Landscapes of the Early Town	19
Colin M. Coates
2. The Herons Are Still Here: History and Place	37
Victoria Dickenson
3. Corporeal Understandings of the Industrializing Environment	51
Nicolas Kenny
4. Influenza and the Urban Environment, 1918–1920	68
Magda Fahrni

Infrastructures: Socio-Technical Systems

5. Surface Water in the Early Nineteenth Century	85
Dany Fougères

6. At the Source of a New Urbanity: Water Networks and Power Relations in the Second Half of the Nineteenth Century Michèle Dagenais	101
7. Hidden Water in the Landscape: The Covered Reservoirs of Mount Royal Susan M. Ross	115
8. The Political Ecology of Floods in the Late Nineteenth Century Christopher G. Boone	133
9. City Streets as Environmental Grid: The Challenge of Private Uses and Municipal Stewardship Sherry Olson	148
10. A City on the Move: The Surprising Consequences of Highways Claire Poitras	168

Hinterlands: City–Country Relationships

11. Agriculture on the Montreal Plain, 1850–1950: Urban Market and Metropolitan Hinterland Stéphane Castonguay	187
12. Horses, Hedges, and Hegemony: Foxhunting in the Countryside Darcy Ingram	211
13. When Bridges Become Barriers: Montreal and Kahnawake Mohawk Territory Daniel Rueck	228
14. The Destruction of the Rural Hinterland: Industrialization of Landscapes in Beauharnois County Louis-Raphaël Pelletier	245
Conclusion: The Historicity of Montreal's Environment Stéphane Castonguay and Michèle Dagenais	265
Notes	271
Contributors	313
Index	317